

M&G European Inflation Linked Corporate Bond

Fund - Euro Class A

Monthly Fund Review as at 31 December 2017

For investment professionals only

Risks associated with this fund

For any past performance shown, please note that past performance is not a guide to current or future performance and the performance data does not take into account any entry and exit charges incurred on the purchase and sale of shares but does take into account the ongoing charge.

The value of investments and the income from them will rise and fall. This will cause the fund price, as well as any income paid by the fund, to fall as well as rise. There is no guarantee the fund will achieve its objective, and you may not get back the amount you originally invested.

The fund may use derivatives with the aim of profiting from a rise or a fall in the value of an asset (for example, a company's bonds). However, if the asset's value varies in a different manner, the fund may incur a loss.

The value of the fund may fall if the issuer of a fixed income security held is unable to pay income payments or repay its debt (known as a default).

For accumulation shares, if inflation is low or zero, there is a risk that the fund's expenses exceed the income it earns. If this happens, any shortfall will be taken from the fund's capital and the fund's capital growth will be reduced.

This fund is subject to effective yield accounting. As a result, part of its capital inflation protection will be distributed to holders of income shares. Income shareholders will therefore, in effect, be receiving part of the capital protection as income.

When interest rates rise, the value of the fund is likely to fall.

Further risk factors that apply to the fund can be found in the fund's Key Investor Information Document (KIID).

Things you should know

The fund may invest more than 35% in securities issued by any one or more of the governments listed in the fund prospectus. Such exposure may be combined with the use of derivatives in pursuit of the fund objective. It is currently envisaged that the fund's exposure to such securities may exceed 35% in the German government, although these may vary subject only to those listed in the prospectus.

The fund allows for the extensive use of derivatives.

The distribution yield reflects the amounts that may be expected to be distributed over the next 12 months as a percentage of the share price, as at the date shown. It is based on a snapshot of the portfolio on that day. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on distributions. The underlying yield reflects the annualised income net of expenses of the fund (calculated in accordance with relevant accounting standards) as a percentage of the mid-market price of the fund as at the date shown. It is based on a snapshot of the portfolio on that day. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on distributions.

* The yield to expected maturity is calculated gross of fund expenses and includes effects from derivative instruments and currency forwards. It is calculated at fund level in the valuation currency of the fund. A fund may hold callable bonds whose yields are calculated on the basis of expected maturity.

Where a security has not been rated by Standard & Poor's, Fitch or Moody's, we may use M&G's internal credit rating. Based on a comparison of all available ratings for each security, the most conservative rating (S&P, Fitch, Moody's or M&G's internal rating) is taken into consideration. The ratings so identified are then expressed or converted into M&G's ratings format to obtain uniform information for all securities in the portfolio.
